CHIPS.

There was a jolly picnic party of about thirty persons at Calder's Farm yesterday.

Yesterday acting governor Thomas commissioned James H. Linford, mayor, and C. C. Hyde and R. Mowry justices of the peace for Kaysville, Davis county.

There are three mail trains due on the Union Pacific, and four on the D. & R. G. They are detained by high water and damage to the roads. It is uncertain when the mails will arrive.

All members of the Western Star Council are requested to meet at the green room of the Salt Lake Theatre, this (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock. Full uniform. By order, H. F. CLARK, Commander.

Artists intending to take part in the exhibition which begins at Calder's Hall on Saturday, are requested to send in their works at once, so that they can be catalogued and hung to-day. Any who fail to do so will fail to find their work mentioned in the catalogue.

The members of the A. O. U. W. were deterred from making their excursion to the lake yesterday, as there seemed to be a storm brewing. They expect to finish their deliberations by noon to-day and to make the excursion this afternoon.

Ogden Occurrences.

The firemen's excursion on June 2d promises to be a success.

Horne and his Hearts of Oak appear here on Thursday, May 29.

John B. Gough lectures in the Junction City on Monday evening next.

A little child of Mr. W. M. Thompson, at one time manager of the Pilot, died last evening. Mr. T. is at Pocatello.

Ogden, it is understood, will celebrate Decoration Day in grand style. But (let me whisper) her citizens will be on the watch, this time, for any "pock" who endeavors to palm off poetry twenty-five years old as being original and "written for and dedicated to John A. Dix Post," or any other.

The mighty Weber river is rolling high at present. There is no authority, however, for the rumor that the Utah Central bridge is unsafe. I suppose the yarn originated from the fact that the railway company are bringing slag, etc., from the south, in order to "make assurance doubly sure," and prevent any possibility of an accident happening.

James Jensen, of Pleasant View, was robbed by highwaymen on Wednesday night. He had been in town purchasing goods, and was rather late in returning home. As he was nearing his abode, about 10.30 o'clock, two men jumped from an ambush, and in no very polite terms demanded that he produce whatever spare ducats he had in his clothes. As this was very modest and gentle invitation was accompanied by the gleaming barrel of a pistol held in very close proximity to his head, Mr. Jensen gave the matter sudden and serious thought, and immediately complied with the request, handing over his purse and contents, amounting, rumor says, to between $8 and $10. Just at that moment footsteps were heard coming towards the scene of operations, and the bold brigands departed. There is a suspicion that the parties are known, but no arrests have been made so far.

TO THE PEN.

Nellie White Suffers Imprisonment for Her Religion.

In the District Court for the Third District of the Territory of Utah, Salt Lake County: In the matter of the contempt of Nellie White, a witness before the Grand Jury of said court of the April term of 1884. On this 22d day of May, 1884, the Grand Jury of this court came into open court, and through their foreman report to the court that Nellie White was a regularly subpoenaed witness before the Grand Jury, which body were examining into and investigating the charge of an alleged violation of the act of Congress approved March 22d, 1882, defining and prohibiting the crime of polygamy and unlawful cohabitation; that in said investigation and examination, evidence was adduced before the said Grand Jury that one Girard Roundy and one Louisa Roundy were husband and wife; that for the purpose of ascertaining whether the said Girard Roundy, while he was so married as aforesaid, and undivorced, and while his said wife, Louisa J. Roundy, was living, he, the said Girard Roundy, married and took to wife one Nellie White. She, the said Nellie White, was regularly subpoenaed as a witness in such behalf, and as such witness on the day aforesaid, appeared before the Grand Jury, was duly sworn and testified in the matter of the said investigation and examination.

That pending the examination of the said Nellie White, the following questions were propounded to her by the Grand Jury, and her answers requested thereto:

1—Have you ever gone through a rite or ceremony of marriage with Girard Roundy?

2—Are you, in accordance with any religious rite, married to Girard Roundy?

3—Did you at any time marry Girard Roundy in plural or celestial form for time or eternity or both?

4—Are you his wife in plural marriage?

5—Are the relations existing between yourself and Girard Roundy those of husband and wife?

6—Do you decline to answer because it is a fact that you are his wife or are not so?

7—Did you ever go through the Endowment House in this city with Girard Roundy for the purpose of assuming or undertaking any covenants of marriage with him?

8—Have you ever been in the Endowment House?

9—Do you know who are the officiating priests or officers in the Endowment House?

To answer the foregoing questions, and each and every of them, she, the said Nellie White, declined and refused, on the ground that said questions, and each and every of them, were not proper questions. Wherefore the said Grand Jury now present the said questions and the refusal to answer the same, together with the said witness to your honor here in open court, that she may be interrogated in all the premises.

And the said Grand Jury respectfully pray the judgment of this court whether she the said Nellie J. White lawfully may or ought to answer the questions aforesaid or any of them.

JOHN TIERNAN,
Foreman of the Grand Jury,
May 22d, 1884.

And the witness Nellie White being before the court, the court propounded to her the above questions so reported by the Grand Jury as having been refused to answer by the witness, and the court asks the witness each of said questions to her, and asking her if she will answer, or if she still declines to answer them; and the witness refuses to answer these questions and says she will not answer them. And the court, having previously, before asking her the above questions, and before her refusal to so answer, told the witness that in the opinion of the court the proposed questions which she had refused to answer were proper in the inquiry before the Grand Jury, and upon her refusal to so answer, it is by the court ordered and adjudged that you, the said Nellie White, be committed in the custody of the United States Marshal until you so answer the above questions, or until the further order of the court in the matter. She was thereupon removed from the court and taken to the penitentiary.

THE A. O. U. W.

Business of the Third Day's Session.

The Grand Lodge met at 10 a.m. yesterday, and the better part of the session was taken up with the consideration of Constitutional amendments; 11 o'clock a.m. had been set as the time for determining upon the place for holding the next session of the Grand Lodge, and J. H. Owings of Montana, E. N. Robinson of Nevada, A. Schaubach of Utah, F. H. Jones of Wyoming, and J. L. Oerndorf of Idaho were appointed a committee to recommend a place for said meeting.

The committee on the death of S. L. Gauce, of Nevada, a former member of the Grand Lodge, and its first deceased, reported appropriate resolutions.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring Grand Receiver, C. F. Sharp, of Carson, Nevada.

The finance committee was instructed to procure a suitable safe for the preservation of the records in the Grand Recorder's office.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the excursion to Salt Lake, which it was intended should take place yesterday, was postponed until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Butte, Montana, was selected as the next place of meeting of the Grand Lodge.

Various matters pertaining to amendments to the constitution are under consideration, and it is not thought that the Grand Lodge will complete its labors before Saturday. The committee on constitutional amendments has a vast amount of labor before it, and a great deal of other committee work remains to be done.

The Grand Lodge then adjourned till 10 a.m. to-day.

Nellie White.

The commitment of Nellie White to the Pen. yesterday for contempt, and the circumstances connected with the incident, will attract a great deal of attention, not only in Utah, but throughout the country. Correspondents here will have telegraphed full details to the journals they represent, and editors will comment at more or less length on the occurrence. It is plain that whatever the facts in the case may be, the young woman is game, and has come here to act her part as a heroine for all it is worth. She is of a bold and independent character apparently; and being a very devout member of the church she professes, she is ready to become a martyr to the cause if need be. It is the belief of her friends that she will never bend a hair's breadth in this matter. There is no telling what the rack and thumb-screws might do, but as these pleasant appliances are out of fashion in these days, it is thought that no available persuader can force her to tell whether she knows anything about the alleged polygamy of Girard Roundy or not.

Nellie White, the alleged third wife of Bishop Roundy, of Wanship, was born in Salt Lake city, and is about 25 years of age. She has been residing in Weber, near Wanship, for some twelve years, her father having a ranch there. Her mother has been a resident of this city for some time past, and is engaged in dress making and straw work in the Sixteenth ward. Nellie herself is a firm believer in all the teachings of the Mormon religion. She is a bright and spirited young woman, of pleasing appearance, and in all respects calculated to lead the court a lively dance in the useless investigation to which she is a party.

THE ART QUESTION.

Considered with the Present Protective Tariff.

To-morrow a local art exposition will open in this city, in which all the works shown are the produce of home talent since the settlement of the Territory. There will probably be upwards of 200 paintings and sculptures exhibited, most of them small in size, and all of them the works of men and women who have had but very indifferent opportunities for the study of art.

In this connection the writer is reminded of a telegram received from Paris, France, Wednesday night to the following effect:

"French artists will revenge the refusal of the United States Congress to reduce the duty on works of art. They will demand that French salons exclude the works of American artists."

The French Salon is an annual art exhibition held in Paris in which the artists of all nations are permitted to present the fruits of their labors with the same freedom, and on the same conditions as the French artists themselves, who are the best organized and best protected by law of any artists in the world. There the poor but talented artist has exactly the same privileges and advantages as the one possessing the greatest wealth, for nothing counts there but ability and the exercise of it. The great Beaux Arts the French Academy of Art, is thrown open gratis to the art students of all countries, and they may have there the advantages of instruction by the greatest masters in the world. Gerome, Meissonier, Bougereau, Duran, and dozens of others who take classes merely for the glory of art.

In that academy and in that splendid art atmosphere of the French capital, most of the American artists who have accomplished anything of note have found not only their inspiration, but the training and experience which have enabled them to become something like artists, though in most cases falling far short of the excellence attained by their French and Italian fellow students.

In return for all these advantages freely allowed to aspiring young Americans by the French government, we close the gates of America which has such a limited supply of art works, to the fine and inexpensive productions of French artists by a tariff which no intelligent artist in America is not opposed to. Congressmen seem to have no understanding or appreciation of the fine art, except so far as they apply to the personal appearance of the national currency, or stocks and bonds. They will not heed the representations of home artists who see what a stupid measure the tariff on art works really is. They have been shown by these men that the free admission of foreign paintings and sculptures would be a boon to the artists of the United States, because the presence of art increases the taste for it, and the advancement of this taste where art works are procurable at reasonable figures, is incalculably more rapid than the production of paintings and sculptures can ever be.

The countries of Europe have had the advantage of a liberal art production for upwards of 300 years, and thousands of good statues and pictures have been treasured up by the wealthy and middle class, while the poorest peasant has obtained some sort of art decoration for his humble cot. The market there is supplied and even overstocked, and the United States become as they are for everything else, the greatest field in the world for art productions.

The Salon in Paris contains such a vast display of paintings and sculptures, that it requires several days for a person having an appreciation of the fine art, to even look at the magnificent and almost bewildering banquet of art. The very poorest of the works admitted there are often as good or better than the best works produced in this country, and the entire exhibition is composed of what the artists have done in the single year preceding the Salon.

How absurd then for Congress to deny us the advantage of obtaining a great part of these works to refine and cultivate the tastes of the American people. The present tariff is not protecting anybody who asks for protection, and is only maintained because the greater part of the members of Congress know and care very little about the merits or influence of art, and have a higher appreciation of the hog or cattle question than of that which concerns the intellectual and moral advancement of the nation. The purse is the thing to cultivate, even to the detriment of mind and heart.

BARRATT BROS.

A Distinction Made.

In the session of the Grand Lodge of A. O. U. W., yesterday, there was a discussion raised as to the qualifications for membership. A motion was made that members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, usually called "Mormons," should not be admitted to membership, but the chair immediately took up the question, making a distinct ruling that no matter of faith or belief could be a bar to admission to the Order, and his ruling was supported by a vote of 50 to 10. A motion was then made that polygamists or bigamists, or those who become such shall not be eligible to membership, and was carried unanimously, on the ground that while no manner of faith was prescribed by law, bigamy and polygamy are illegal and should receive no countenance from the Brotherhood. A great many Mormons are already members of the Order.

Editors Herald:

"Horseman," from Payson, has some talk in this morning's HERALD in regard to the operation of the Utah County races, which was unsatisfactory to the correspondent. Concerning the evil complained of, I know nothing and care nothing, but I do wish to state distinctly that whatever promises are made by the Salt Lake Driving Park Association for its forthcoming races, June 9th and 10th, will be filed to the letter, if it takes the whole track, and Rarus, Jr., included, to do it.

Respectfully,

Political.

Lincoln, Neb., 22.—The Democratic State convention was called to order at 8 o'clock. An hour was spent over temporary organization, which was finally effected by electing B. A. Hinman, of Lincoln county, chairman. Following is the platform adopted: We, delegates of the Democratic party for the State of Nebraska, in convention assembled, submit the following platform of reforms and measures: First, we demand vigorous frugality in every department, from every officer of the government, and we heartily concur in the sentiment, that no reform of administration is possible so long as the government is directed by a party under the dominion of false doctrines, and animated by enormous pecuniary interests and interested in the perpetuation of existing abuses; that the first effectual step in the reform of our government, must be a fundamental change in the policy of its administration. Second: That in view of the unequal and discriminating operation of the existing tariff, and unjust and excessive burdens imposed upon the people, we are in favor of a revision, which shall limit it to the production of necessary revenues of the government, economically administered, that should be so adjusted as to prevent, as far as possible, the unequal burdens upon labor and to bear most heavily upon articles of luxury, and lightly upon articles of necessity. We believe that such a revision of the tariff laws, simplified in their operation and administration, will decrease the growth of monopolies, prevent oppression and spoliation of labor, and the unequal distribution of wealth, and abolish special and class legislation.

Resolved, That as our fathers, under the lead of Thomas Jefferson, rescued our republic from the control of federalism and the alien and sedition laws of the elder Adams, so will the Democratic party of 1884 hurl the Republican party from power and re-elect Samuel J. Tilden and Thomas Hendricks President and Vice-President of the United States.

Balloting for delegates at large resulted in the election of James E. Boyd, of Douglas County, J. Sterling Morton, of Soto, W. H. Munger, of Dodge, and Tobias Caster, of Saline. Delegates all for Tilden. Adjourned.

John B. Gough.

This evening Salt Lakeers will have the opportunity of hearing one of the world's celebrities. John B. Gough is beyond all question the most popular platform orator in the English language; no man has the same amount of magnetism and electricity that he has, his jokes and anecdotes have been copied by hundreds, but there is only one John B. Gough. One Englishman (William Noble of London) committed almost an entire volume of his lectures to memory, but though he was a very fine mimic and could recite beautifully, he could not move an audience as Mr. Gough can. It is impossible to describe Mr. Gough, he must be heard. The Templars of Honor and Temperance societies have arranged to appear upon the stage in their splendid uniform, to show their appreciation of and to accord a world's hearty welcome to the world's most famous temperance champion.

The box office of the Theatre will be open this morning at 10 o'clock for the sale of tickets. There will be no extra charge for reserved seats. The lecture will commence at 8.30 precisely, standard time.

They also make a specialty of removing household goods. Their office is next door south of Godbe, Pitts & Co's, drug store.

Base Ball.

There ought to be a large audience at the Eighth Ward Square at 3 p.m. to-morrow to witness the contest with bat and ball between the Red Boys and the Blue Stockings. The game will be played for a purse of $50, and the boys will put in their best strokes.

Miss L. L. Willard has removed to 48 E. Third South, house lately occupied by E. W. Ruff.
